Fire Alarm in Japan

Description
This is a view of a type of electrical fire alarm in Japan. The bulb at the top would flash red when the alarm was activated. Such alarms were not as effective as watchtowers because they were poorly maintained and not well connected to fire stations other than the most local one. From Basil Rice.

Date(s)
October 1945

Accession Number 2018-146

4x5 inches (10x13 cm) Black & White

Rights The Library is unaware of any copyright claims to this item; use at your own risk.

Note: If you use this image, rights assessment and attribution are your responsibility.

Harry S. Truman Library & Museum.

Attention media: Please make note of this item's accession number. Print out this page and retain it for your permissions records before downloading this image file for possible publication. Library staff cannot sign permissions forms or provide additional paperwork. The Library charges no usage fees for downloaded images.