Handwritten memo by Harry S. Truman

FROM THE DESK OF Harry S. Truman

nomination for Vice President. Finally Mr. Hannegan, the Chairman of the National Democratic Committee called the President in San Diego Calif. He asked Mr. Hannegan if he had recieved a committment from the Junior Senator from Missouri. Mr. Hannegan told the President that he had never been in contact with as unfair and contrary a man. Then the President said, and I could hear him, "Well if he wants to let the Democratic Party and the country down in the midst of a war that is his responsibility."

I want to put it mildly

stymied.
