

A street in Berlin lined with buildings and statues destroyed by bombing in World War II

Description

A lone figure and rearing horse are all that remain from statues in a park in Berlin, Germany, showing extensive damage from bombs in World War II. Across the street and in the background are damaged or destroyed buildings and a church. Donor: Barney Ricketts.

Date(s) ca.

July 1945

Accession Number 2007-57

8x10 inches (21x26 cm) Black & White

Keywords Bombs Cities and towns Streets World War, 1939-1945

HST Keywords Germany - Cities and Towns - Berlin - WWII; World War II - General File

Rights The Library is unaware of any copyright claims to this item; use at your own risk.

Note: If you use this image, rights assessment and attribution are your responsibility.

Harry S. Truman Library & Museum.

Attention media: Please make note of this item's accession number. Print out this page and retain it for your permissions records before downloading this image file for possible publication. Library staff cannot sign permissions forms or provide additional paperwork. The Library charges no usage fees for downloaded images.