

A black and white aerial photograph of a crowded city square in Amsterdam. The square is filled with a large gathering of people, appearing as a dense pattern of small dark dots. Surrounding the square are numerous historic buildings with varied rooflines, including several churches with prominent domes and spires. The perspective is from directly above, looking down on the scene.

Aerial view of Dam Square in Amsterdam, Netherlands during World War II. The pilot was flying over during rest leave.

May 7, 1945

8.5 x 9 inches Black & White

Keywords Aerial photographs World War, 1939-1945

Note: If you use this image, rights assessment and attribution are your responsibility.

Attention media: Please make note of this item's accession number. Print out this page and retain it for your permissions records before downloading this image file for possible publication. Library staff cannot sign permissions forms or provide additional paperwork. The Library charges no usage fees for downloaded images.