Japanese Fire Fighter Holding a Flag-like Standard

Description
An unidentified Japanese fire fighter is holding a standard. A fire fighting company's standard, similar to a flag, is a very old tradition. The standard bearer would run and plant the standard at the point beyond which the firefighters would not let the fire spread. At the time, it was still in use. From Basil Rice.

Date(s)
October 1945

Accession Number 2018-129

4x5 inches (10x13 cm) Black & White

Keywords Fire fighters

Rights The Library is unaware of any copyright claims to this item; use at your own risk.

Note: If you use this image, rights assessment and attribution are your responsibility.

Harry S. Truman Library & Museum.

Attention media: Please make note of this item's accession number. Print out this page and retain it for your permissions records before downloading this image file for possible publication. Library staff cannot sign permissions forms or provide additional paperwork. The Library charges no usage fees for downloaded images.