

The Remains of a Water Reservoir in Nagasaki, Japan

Description

In the center of the photo is what remains of a water reservoir the Japanese constructed to hold water for fighting fires where running water would not have been available. There is a ladder to reach the bottom. The road has been cleared since the atomic bomb in Nagasaki, Japan. From Basil Rice.

Date(s)

October 1945

Accession Number 2018-222

4x5 inches (10x13 cm) Black & White

Keywords Nagasaki-shi (Japan) bombardment, 1945 War damage

Rights The Library is unaware of any copyright claims to this item; use at your own risk.

Note: If you use this image, rights assessment and attribution are your responsibility.

Harry S. Truman Library & Museum.

Attention media: Please make note of this item's accession number. Print out this page and retain it for your permissions records before downloading this image file for possible publication. Library staff cannot sign permissions forms or provide additional paperwork. The Library charges no usage fees for downloaded images.