

Accession Number M209
Description

A map of Arkansas that serves as an index for the availability of other maps distributed by the United States Geological Survey. Specifics of each map, such as original publisher, date of publishing, map scale, and other details, are explained in the map key at the bottom right corner. Ink annotations highlight a large collection of maps near the northeastern part of Arkansas. The map also features state and county lines, cities and towns, rivers, creeks, railroads, and other details. Print on the back describes specific maps and summarizes the features of United States Geological Survey topographical maps.
